NAZIS POISED FOR NEW THRUST IN EAST

Death Takes Lou Gehrig

HENRY Louis Gehrig, known affectionately to the nation's baseball fans as the "Iron Horse," died Monday night at the age of 37 in his New York City home to an old infantile condition which caused his retirement from baseball two years ago. Above he is pictured at his desk of the New York City Parole Board of which he became a member when he hung up the baseball glove he'd worn for 14 years. Gehrig won his nickname of the "Iron Horse" by playing 2,130 consecutive games with New York Yankees. (More about Gehrig appears on sports page.)

Schmeling Recuperating In Hospital In Athens

BERLIN, June 3 — Max Schmeling, former world's heavyweight boxing champion and now one of Germany's most famous parachute troopers, was recovering today from the effects of a sprained left ankle and heat stroke suffered while he was participating in the battle of Crete.

The hard-hitting Schmeling, was one of the first parachutists to take part in the invasion of the Greek Mediterranean island, now is in an Athens hospital, where physicians said he is making excellent progress.

Refuting continued erroneous foreign reports that Max was killed in Crete, the official German radio carried an interview with Schmeling in which he told of his part in the Crete attack.

Schmeling, broadcasting from Room No. 60 in the hospital, declared:

"I fought for three days in Crete. It was a tough job.

"The British shot at us when we glided down to earth but we managed to land safely."

He described the British superiority and heavier weapons as compared with the light German arms used in the fighting and then added:

"I still feel a little weak, but I am recovering quickly."

Collision of two cars and a truck on South Court Street Tuesday was reported by Patrolman Alva Shasteen.

According to the patrolman, Banner J. Dozer, truck driver, McArthur, Elbert Turner, McArthur, and Maynard Essex, Ray, all were traveling north when the accident happened. Turner started around the truck as Essex started around Turner, Patrolman Shasteen said, and all three vehicles tangled as Essex pulled between Turner and the truck. The truck was not damaged. The right side of Turner's car and the front end of the Essex car were damaged.

ROME, June 3—The Italian press today appealed to Deanna Durbin "to save America from Roosevelt's dictatorship."

The newspaper Popolo D'Italia published a column-long open letter addressed to "Dearest Deanna Durbin."

means economic dictatorship. This was heatedly denied by New Deal leaders who said the measure means that nothing can stand in the way of the "all-out" defense program.

Three major objectives of the bill, which the War Department sent to congress with Mr. Roosevelt's approval and which was introduced by Sen. Reynolds (D) N. C., chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, were seen by some informed administration sources. They are:

1. Give the President power to halt strikes through threat of government ownership of plants.

2. Permit seizure of Nazi-controlled corporations as the first step in a gigantic scheme

AMERICAN STEEL COMPANIES SET NEW HIGH MARKS

NEW YORK, June 3 — Steel, the slumbering giant of industry three years ago, has come awake today with a roar that only inadequate supplies of pig iron and scrap can tone down.

If it's steel that Washington wants it's there—white hot and in quantity to beat world production—including Germany — down to something less than man-sized competition.

Three years ago this week, steel dozed along at 26 1-10 percent of capacity production, according to the American Iron & Steel Institute. Today, the industry as a whole was running at 99 2-10 percent of ingot capacity and Bethlehem pushed its production figures three percent beyond the 100 percent capacity.

Bethlehem's production of 1,040,000 tons for May set an all-time high record for the company and represented a gain of 16,000 tons over March which had set the previous high.

The industry as a whole has moved into such new high production grounds that Irving S. Olds, chairman of U. S. Steel, announced recently that his company alone will beat the production of all Germany if present production is maintained for 12 months.

FAMED CIRCUS MAN DIES

CINCINNATI, June 3—John G. Rebmann, 72, former "boss" canvasser for Barnum & Bailey's circus who boasted he could play 27 musical instruments, is dead. He had retired several years ago after 50 years service under the big-tops.

Plane Fall Kills Four; Inquiry On

FBI And Five Other Agencies Studying Sabotage Angle

SAN DIEGO, June 3 — With officials of the Consolidated Aircraft Company strongly suspecting sabotage, a six-way investigation was undertaken today into the crash of a huge four-motored Consolidated bomber destined for Britain. Four men died in the crash.

The tragedy occurred when the controls of the plane apparently failed to function properly immediately after the takeoff.

The agencies investigating the crash were the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the San Diego county coroner's office, the U. S. Army, Consolidated and British authorities and the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

The ill-fated flight was to have been the last test hop for the ship which, according to company officials, was thoroughly tested last week and found to be in perfect mechanical condition.

"It was one of those things that just couldn't happen," said a Consolidated spokesman. "The pilot was unable to control the ship after it got into the air."

"This points to the possibility that the controls had been tampered with. If sabotage was responsible for the crash, the guilty

Rev. Peterson to Return; Few Changes Ordered In Various County Pulpits

Methodist Conference Is Concluded With Report That Too Much Power Is Being Given To President

The Rev. Neil Peterson, North Pickaway Street, pastor of the First Methodist Church for the last year, was reassigned Monday night at the concluding session of the Ohio Methodist Conference in Columbus to serve for another year. The Rev. Mr. Peterson came to Circleville from Columbus, succeeding the Rev. C. F. Bowman.

Very few changes in pastorates in the county resulted from the conference. The Revs. Dwight Woodworth of Ashville, R. S. Meyer of Williamsport, V. C. Stump of New Holland-Atlanta, S. N. Root of Tarleton and Fred Mark of Emmett's Chapel were returned to their charges for additional service.

The Rev. T. A. Ballinger of South Bloomfield was transferred to New Knoxville in the Lima district; the Rev. Robert Lawrence of Commercial Point was sent to Bowersville, Wilmington district, and the Rev. R. L. Klausmeier of Adelphi was assigned to Lima Trinity as associate. The Rev. E. D. Bartlett will be the new Bloomfield pastor, the Rev. Dale Francis goes to Commercial Point, and the Rev. W. M. Gross takes over the Adelphi charge.

Others Transferred Among changes affecting pastors who have formerly served in Pickaway County include assignment of S. C. Elsea to Bourneville; J. O. Kilmer to serve as field agent for White Cross Hospital; D. H. Householder as pastor of the Neil Avenue Church, Columbus; Clarence Swearingen to Third Avenue, Columbus; R. A. Moore to Kirkersville and S. A. Beall to Xenia Trinity.

The conference adopted a committee report which expressed concern that "we do not feel our President is using his office to lead us to peace."

"We are aware of the burden placed on the President," the adopted report read. "Nevertheless, we are deeply concerned with the increasing power which is accruing to the Presidency. We are profoundly concerned that the last fireside speech was needlessly provocative."

Minority Active A minority protest was lodged against the report adopted by delegates representing 580 churches with an estimated membership of 254,000. Also approved over a minority protest was a declaration that "the Methodist Church is against war; it is against any involvement in this war; it will never sanction or participate in war."

Springfield was selected for the 1942 conference meeting which will begin May 26.

PICKAWAY SCHOOL BOARD NAMES TWO INSTRUCTORS

GERMANS GRAB SYRIAN BASES FOR OFFENSIVE

London Declares 400 Planes Already Assembled For War Extension

"TOURISTS" FILL LAND

Vichy and Berlin Issue Denials Concerning Activities

LONDON, June 3—With hundreds of German fighting and transport planes already reported at Syrian bases, the Nazi war machine was poised for a new blow against British might in the Near East today.

At least 400 Heinkels, Messerschmitts and Junkers transport planes have already arrived at Syrian bases, best estimates in London said, while "tourists" dispatched to the French-mandated territory to lay the groundwork for German seizure were said to number at least 20,000.

British sources discounted Vichy denials of the German concentrations.

One reliable neutral diplomatic source insisted that three German motorized Panzer divisions plus two complete light tank units already are in the country.

These same informants declared that German "tourists" in Syria now number 20,000 — including parachute troops and other "air-blitz experts." Equipment for these "effectives" was reported steadily being massed within Syria's borders.

Authoritative British quarters confirmed it was possible that "one or two single ships" laden with German war materials have reached and landed in Syria. But they emphasized the British Navy is patrolling the eastern Mediterranean in such force that it is "impossible" that any large convoy got through without being reported.

From non-British sources it was learned that German aerial reinforcement of Nazi forces in Syria is continuing. Meanwhile, British quarters declined to answer a direct question as to why action against these forces had been delayed.

In addition, London quarters placed little credence in denials that a state of siege had been declared in Syria. This proclamation was "interpreted as a move to 'insure' privacy for the moves of Berlin and Vichy and Syria."

Cyprus Attack Near

Meanwhile, most neutral diplomatic quarters in London expressed belief a German attack on the British island of Cyprus in the eastern Mediterranean may develop within a week. They forecast that it will be launched from Syrian bases.

Other quarters anticipate a quick British move in Syria to forestall such an attack on Cyprus. Reports that German shock troops and Panzer units have

UNION MEN TOLD TO BREAK LINES AT SHIP YARDS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3 — A major break in the San Francisco Bay region's $665,000,000 shipyard tieup came today after the governing body for 5,000 skilled metal craft workers ordered its membership to penetrate machinist picket lines at three Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company yards and resume work on warship construction.

In swift response to the Defense Mediation Board's recommendation for resumption of work at Bethlehem "pending negotiations" the Bay Cities Metal Trades Council instructed 16 affiliated American Federation of Labor crafts to return to their jobs by tomorrow at the latest.

Striking machinists did not attend the council meeting, and planned to continue picketing the plants where progress on $294,000,000 in cruiser and destroyer contracts for the Navy Department has been stalled since May 12.

BRITAIN'S LOSS AT SEA GREAT

Germans Report Total Of 746,000 Tons Sent Down During Last Month

BERLIN, June 3—The German high command announced today that British merchant ship losses during the month of May totaled 746,000 tons.

Of this total, the high command announced in its daily communique, 479,000 tons were sunk by submarines, 215,000 tons by planes and the remainder by surface craft.

German planes yesterday sank five British merchant ships out of convoys along the British east coast and damaged five other freighters.

Other German planes carried out successful daylight raids on harbor facilities, warehouses and railroad yards in the midlands and also pounded harbor works on the Tyne and Humber estuaries at night.

Bomb hits were scored on a large merchant ship in the Atlantic west of the Faroe Islands.

ITALIANS HINT UNCLE SAM ONE OF AXIS TOPICS

ROME, June 3—A strong hint that the United States was one of the chief topics discussed by Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler yesterday came from Virginio Gayda today, while Italian authorities termed the meeting the "start of a new military cycle."

Gayda, Premier Mussolini's press spokesman, wrote: "The axis is able to oppose vast resources, military and political force and substantial possibilities of defense and offense against America, whose aid England is insistently requesting."

An Italian official declared: "The length of the conversation (five hours) and the fact it occurred at a definite moment of international and political importance shows the vastness and vitality of future axis action."

"The meeting marked the end of the Balkan war and the start of a new military cycle. "Only deeds will reveal what decisions were taken."

DEFENSE PROGRAM MIGHT TAKE AWAY FAMILY BATH

CHICAGO, June 3—The National Defense program today threatened the washtub.

L. Edward Scriven, an OPM official, in explaining how civilian production will be curtailed by National Defense needs, said in a speech before the National Retail Dry Goods Dealers' Association: "A big production program for military brass may and will affect the zinc picture and thereby make it difficult for the retailer to obtain so prosaic an article as a galvanized washtub."

Attlee Says Empire Standing Unbeaten; Nation Will Fight To Finish

LONDON, June 3 — Britain's Labor Party Conference proclaimed its outright opposition to any compromise or negotiated peace with Nazi Germany today after Lord Privy Seal Clement R. Attlee ringingly declared that Britain "stands unbeaten."

A memorandum, prepared by the national executive body of the Labor Party, asserting the "prelude to a just peace must be total victory" over the Reich was approved overwhelmingly by the conference.

The vote, with delegates casting proxies, was announced as 2,430,000 to 19,000.

Before taking the vote the delegates to the conference heard Attlee, a member of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's war cabinet, declare the government would spurn any suggestions of a negotiated peace.

Attlee, long a guiding spirit in Britain's Labor Party, addressed the Labor Party Conference in London.

"We stand unbeaten," he declared.

Losses Explained

"It is true that we have had set-backs and cruel losses. But we also have had successes."

"Hitler has had defeats as well as victories."

"We have hard times to come, but we have the assurance of victory because the forces coming up behind us are stronger than the forces opposed to us."

Attlee then voiced the government's determination to fight the war to a finish rather than reach any compromise with Germany—a determination also recently expressed by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

"All the government," said Attlee, is absolutely united in determination to bring the war to a successful conclusion."

"There can be no halting and no parleying . . . there is no way out but the destruction of Hitlerism."

Reports Current

(Editor's Note: There have been recent reports of German efforts to reach a negotiated peace with Britain. One of these reports said United States Ambassador John G. Winant returned to the United States from London to report to President Roosevelt on a German peace offer said to have been brought to Britain by Rudolf Hess, the No. 3 Nazi leader who parachuted to earth in Scotland from a German warplane.)

After hearing Attlee's address, the Labor Party Conference began its debate on a memorandum prepared by the national executive body declaring a compromise peace or a peace by negotiation with Hitler or Premier Mussolini would be impossible.

The memorandum also stated that British Labor would have no part, directly or indirectly, in a policy accommodating such a peace and that the "prelude to a just peace must be total victory."

ALUMNI ASKED TO HEAR TRIAL ON 'HUMANITY'

Rocking County alumni of Ohio State University are receiving invitations to attend a trial on the campus June 12-13, the trial of man himself.

The annual "alumni college" preceding commencement this year has the title of "Humanity on Trial." Complete with judges, prosecutors, defense attorneys, jury, and witnesses, the court will seek the answer to man's present predicament.

Expert witnesses from the arts, humanities, and sciences will appear before the court to offer their testimony, as to man's responsibility for the present state of world affairs.

Witnesses on one side will sum up man's achievements, those on the other will describe human weaknesses. Accomplishments in art, science, and religion will be weighed against war, industrial strife, disease, slums, criminality, and immorality.

At the final session President Howard L. Bevis will give the "sentence," following summation of their cases by defense and prosecution attorneys.

Admission to all the sessions is free. Although the annual alumni college is planned primarily for Ohio State graduates and former students, the program is open to all others who are interested.

MAN, 27, CHARGED IN THEFT SERIES, PUT ON PAROLE

Common Pleas Judge Meeker Terwilliger, Tuesday, granted a two-year parole to William Imier, 27, 708 South Washington Street, indicted for receiving stolen property.

Terms of the parole require that Imier pay the costs of prosecution of his case, and that he report regularly for the next two years to the county prosecutor. He must violate no laws of the nation, state, county or city during his probation period.

Imier's two brothers-in-law, Robert Garrett, 20, and Merle Garrett, 17, indicted for stealing more than $200 worth of miscellaneous articles from cars and houses in Circleville and Ashville, and alleged to have hidden stolen goods in Imier's house, were sentenced to Boy's Industrial School, Lancaster, by Judge Terwilliger after they had pleaded guilty to the charges. The two boys, at the time of their arrest, told arresting officers that they and Imier planned to start a second hand store in Columbus with the loot they collected.

landed in Syria were given wide prominence in London. So strong were these reports that the London Daily Sketch accompanied its page one story of the landings with a black-bordered, bold face box carrying the recommendation: "We should invade Syria at once."

Added color was lent the reports by the sudden arrival at Vichy yesterday of Gen. Maxime Weygand, commander of France's North African forces, for an urgent conference with Foreign Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain.

Dispatches from Vichy said their talk was concerned with formation of plans for defense of the French Empire. Shortly after the Petain-Weygand conference, the Vichy government formally denied reports that German motorized troops had landed in Syria.

The London Daily Express, however, said messages reaching London told of landings of German shock troops in Syria by air and sea and described the sea-borne units as fully motorized Panzer detachments.

These armored columns were said to have disembarked at the Syrian ports of Latakia from transport vessels which sailed there at night to escape the British navy.

The paper said the transports edged through the Dodecanese Island and then along the Turkish coast just outside Turkish territorial waters.

(Editor's Note: At Vichy, Petain was understood to have summoned his entire cabinet to an emergency meeting today to consider developments threatening to convert Syria or other French colonies into theatres of war.

Denial Voiced
(Gen. Henri Dentz, French high commissioner for Syria, cabled from his headquarters at Beirut formally denying that German troops had landed at the Syrian port of Latakia. Dentz also described as "completely incorrect" a report stating French regiments in Syria were moving south toward the Palestine frontier and being progressively replaced by German troops.)

The "free French" radio station at Brazzaville, French equatorial Africa, announced: "Syria soon may become the main theatre of operations in the middle east."

"French circles are discussing the possibility of British occupation of Syria. Termination of the hostilities in Iraq would greatly facilitate such a move, as a large part of the Syrian population is of Arab origin and will be influenced by the attitude of their neighbors."

"In the meantime the Germans are developing their activity in Syria with the consent of Vichy."

BERLIN, June 3—Wilhelmstrasse authorities denied all knowledge today of any German landings or military concentrations in French-mandated Syria. Authoritative quarters declared the German government would reserve all agitation regarding the situation in Syria for London.

But they pointed out the French government recently promised to protect its territory against any attacks. "If the British march into Syria," German quarters said, "it would in the first place be a Franco-British matter."

"We recall that French Vice Premier Admiral Jean Darlan said in his recent address that France is ready to defend all her territory."

"It must be seen first what France would do in the event of such a British attack. On our side, we can only point out that at present we are operating under terms of the Franco-German armistice."

"We naturally are ready to adjust it to give all possible elbow room to enable France to carry out her holy obligation of defending her own territory."

ANKARA, June 3—Rumors that French authorities in Syria are asking the Germans to withdraw their aircraft and military supplies from the French-mandated territory reached Ankara today.

These rumors said the French made the request in order to "avoid a conflict with Britain." Rumors circulated in Ankara that Britain soon may issue a declaration branding as "hostile" any ship proceeding to Syria.

Information reaching the Turkish capital claimed the Germans are well established in Aleppo (scene of a recent RAF bombing raid on German aircraft) and other Syrian towns, where the Nazis "remain in hiding and rarely appear in public."

It is estimated that 400,000 persons enter and leave penal institutions in the United States each year.

persons will be found, for a relentless investigation has been launched."

Agents Act At Once
Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were on the job shortly after the plane dove into San Diego Bay and the wreckage retrieved by Navy crash boats. With Consolidated officials, they sped to the bedside of the only survivor, Louis McCann, Woodstock, Ill., member of the bomber's crew. He was critically injured and was taken to a hospital in an unconscious condition.

When he regained consciousness, federal agents sought to glean from him every scrap of information they could, especially in regard to the sabotage theory. Those killed were William Wheatley, chief test pilot and service manager for Consolidated Aircraft; Alan T. Austen, Wheatley's assistant; Bruce Craig and William Reiser, engineers.

With Wheatley commanding the flight, the $250,000 plane, a land plane known as the B-24, took off from the field adjoining the Consolidated plant shortly after 11 a. m. and climbed to an altitude of 1,000 feet.

Hovers In Air
Directly over the field the craft stalled, hovered momentarily in a nose-down position and then fell swiftly to 50 feet above the water. For a moment it looked as though Wheatley, struggling at the controls, would bring the ship to rights, but the attempt failed and the plane hurtled into the bay which skirts the field.

POWER TO TAKE VITAL PROPERTY ASKED BY F. D. R.

Three Objectives Of Bill Sent To Congress Cited By Sen. Reynolds

of economic "defensive warfare."

3. Allow curb of production of civilian goods which compete with the defense program.

The bill, approved also by the Navy Department and the OPM, rolls into one short measure powers now possessed under a national emergency add—some new ones and "lashes 'red tape' now facing the government in seizure of plants.

"Teeth" Provided
Assistant Secretary of War Patterson said in an accompanying letter to congress it would "put teeth" into the full emergency. Under it, the President can take over, temporarily or permanently, property of any kind, tangible or intangible, personal or real, which is adaptable for use in defense work. The President can also sell it, but either temporarily or permanently.

While the President can under the Draft Act take over any industry refusing to manufacture for defense, the War Department says this power is not broad enough to force recalcitrant owners to obey defense dictates.

Patterson said the bill would permit the acquisition of defense supplies and materials; tend to stabilize and prevent profiteering and hoarding; permit use of some needed part of a plant in cases in which the facilities of the entire plant are not required; permit prompt acquisition of required equipment such as machine tools, not employed in the interests of defense, enable War Department to compel compliance with defense needs from corporations and plants under foreign ownership or control; permit plant seizure and permit acquisition of contracts and contract rights.

Sen. Wheeler (D) Mont., non-interventionist leader, said "I can see no reason to give the President the right to take over either real or personal property of the citizens."

"I doubt that either Mussolini or Hitler has that much personal power. If the press reports can be taken at their face value, it means that we are headed for complete and total dictatorship in the United States providing the President wants to exercise that power."

Sen. Clark (D) Idaho, said "It sounds like a virtual dictatorship." "The terms are much too broad," said Sen. Taft (R) Ohio. "If congress grants any such power it should be for a limited period. It is a dictatorial act."

Like World War
Sen. George (D) Ga., said the power might be used to end strikes in defense industries. He said he "assumed" the bill is designed to give the President powers during the national emergency that were exercised by President Wilson during the World War.

Reynolds called a meeting of his committee for Friday to study the bill. Rep. May (D) Ky., chairman of the House Military Affairs committee, said the bill would be given "careful consideration."

"That's just like taking away the writ of habeas corpus," said May when he read the bill. "It does seem a strange proposal in view of the fact that industry has cooperated 100 percent."

Wheeler termed the proposal "a direct threat to every person in the United States." He added that "it means that the President will have the power to take the farm from the farmer, the tools from the worker and the plant from the manufacturer."

"It means also that he could take over the press and radio. He already has the power to take the lives of our boys so what is there left to our so-called way of life or free enterprise or free labor? This ought to be notice to the war-mongers of the 'unruly' as to what is going to happen to them."

Sen. Bone (D) Wash. a non-interventionist, said that "if a can give the President power to requisition our boys we should not hesitate to give him power to draft industrial and personal property."

JACKSON TIPPED FOR POSITION AS CHIEF JUSTICE

Charles Evans Hughes Gives Up Bench On July 1, He Writes President

AGE OF 79 REACHED

Present Attorney General To Carry Most Of New Deal Support

WASHINGTON, June 3—President Roosevelt today faced the pleasant duty of filling the seventh vacancy on the Supreme Court under the New Deal as Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes announced his retirement, effective July 1.

Many New Dealers immediately forecast the appointment of Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, of New York, as chief justice. A few predicted that a Coolidge Republican appointee to the tribunal, Associate Justice Harlan F. Stone, also of New York, would be named to head the court with Jackson getting an associate justiceship.

There is little doubt in Washington that Jackson will be elevated to the Supreme Court, either as Chief Justice or associate justice, nor is there much doubt but that Solicitor General Francis Biddle, of Pennsylvania, will be promoted to attorney general. The only question raised against Jackson's elevation is that Mr. Roosevelt might deem it desirable to keep him in the cabinet for the duration of the international emergency. This alternative was held so lightly that there was no speculation for the moment over any other possible appointee to the court.

1937 Goal Reached

With the retirement of Chief Justice Hughes, Mr. Roosevelt achieves the ultimate goal of his sensational 1937 bill to enlarge the Supreme Court—the naming of seven justices to that court. He already has named five—Associate Justices Black, Reed, Frankfurter, Douglas and Murphy—with one vacancy unfilled since Associate Justice James Clark McReynolds retired months ago. Incidentally, Sen. James F. Byrnes (D), S. C., is slated for the McReynolds post whenever the President believes he can be spared from the senate. Only one president—George Washington has named more justices.

The retirement of Chief Justice Hughes was exclusively forecast by International News Service last April 21. Then, his friends said, he would retire at the end of the June term at his wife's insistence. In his letter to the President, announcing his retirement, Mr. Hughes based his act on "Consideration of health and age." He was 79 on April 11.

Jackson, long an intimate friend of the President, has tremendous New Deal support for the chief justiceship. Among those who have advocated his promotion to head the tribunal are Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter and the presidential adviser, Harry L. Hopkins. Despite this support, some New Dealers favor promotion of Associate Justice Stone, senior member of the court and an ardent supporter of the New Deal despite his Republican background. The Stone adherents contend that Jackson has had an unimpressive seven-year career in the federal service which does not qualify him for the nation's highest judicial post. Stone, they say, has spent 17 years in the federal service, 16 of them on the high court, with great distinction.

CAUSE OF BOY'S DEATH STUDIED IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, June 3—Coroner Frank M. Coppock and Dr. W. H. Ventress, pathologist, today investigated the death of 16-year-old Ralph Mitchell, Fairmount school boy who was thought to have been electrocuted. Death came as the youth was returning from a picnic. Witnesses said the boy was standing in a crowded streetcar holding to a metal handgrip on the corner of the seat when he suddenly said:

"I got a shock. Gee, it hurts." A moment later he slumped to the floor of the car. He was dead when examined by a physician. Dr. Ventress, after an examination of the body, said that there were no burns on the body but was unable to ascribe the cause of death.

Leaves Bench

CHIEF Justice Charles Evans Hughes who has resigned his position on the Supreme Court bench.

VALUED PUBLIC CAREER TO END FOR FAMED MAN

WASHINGTON, June 3—One of the most illustrious public careers in the nation's history will end July 1 when Charles Evans Hughes steps out as chief justice of the United States, a position he has held since February 24, 1930.

The 11th chief justice in the 151 years of the court, Chief Justice Hughes, appointed by President Hoover, was 79 on his last birthday, April 11.

Known as one of the greatest lawyers in the country's history, and one of the most indefatigable workers in service of the government, the chief justice refused to slow down even on the eve of his retirement.

He presided at the closing day of the court's June term yesterday, even after his letter of resignation had been drafted. It was sent to the White House immediately after the court adjourned until October, and telegraphed from the White House to the President at Hyde Park.

The chief justice admittedly has held the post during one of the most difficult periods in the history of the court—a period during which the court gradually passed from a so-called liberal policy of interpreting the constitution.

During this period the chief justice occupied a middle role. He plainly sought to save the court from destructive public criticism or congressional action by achieving an orderly transition.

The chief justice was born at Glens Falls, N. Y., the son of a minister. He attended Colgate and Brown Universities, and took his law degree at Columbia. A brilliant student, he won a prize fellowship.

Successively he occupied such high posts as governor of New York, associate justice of the supreme court and secretary of state. The Republican candidate for president in 1916, he missed election by a hair's breadth. For two days the country believed he had won. Then returns from California gave the election to Woodrow Wilson.

Rejecting a Republican nomination for mayor of New York, he was elected governor and served two terms, from 1907 to 1910. Appointed an associate justice of the high court, he served from 1910 until he was nominated by a Republican convention for the presidency June 10, 1916.

After his defeat for the presidency, the chief justice entered practice of law in New York. He reputedly commanded an earning power of $500,000 annually.

MORE SCHOOLS MAY TAKE PART IN LUNCH PLAN

Superintendent Favors Wide Use Of Program With Aid Of Relief Office

SIX JOIN IN 1940-41

Parent-Teacher Groups, Other Units Assist During Last Year

Six schools with 125 pupils participated in the school lunch program in Pickaway County during 1940-41, according to a report of Relief Director Delos H. Marcy.

Schools participating were Washington Township, Monroe Township, Perry Township, Deer Creek Township, Jackson Township and Scioto Township.

A large share of the credit for the county program is due Superintendent George D. McDowell, the relief director stated, although Superintendent McDowell insists that the responsibility for success of the plan rests with the local superintendents and teachers. He states "Undoubtedly the program has benefited undernourished school children, improved their attendance, and contributed to the health program of the schools. It is hoped more of the schools will participate next year."

The school lunch program is a community enterprise for giving warm lunches to undernourished children. Most of the food served is provided by the Surplus Marketing Administration of the United States department of Agriculture and consists of basic commodities purchased by the government to stabilize agricultural markets.

P.T.A. Funds Help

To complete the menu, supplemental food is supplied through funds gathered by Parent-Teacher Association groups. In all six schools, help for the preparation and serving of meals was received from the P.T.A.

The program over the nation as a whole is growing, according to school authorities and Relief Director Marcy is planning a bigger program for the county schools next year.

More than five million of the estimated nine million undernourished children now receive warm noon lunches, more than twice as many as a year ago.

Operation of the program is entirely local, Relief Director Marcy pointed out, and not dependent on state or federal supervision. As in other counties in Ohio, local school authorities, P.T.A. groups and other civic organizations have important parts in carrying out the plan.

Participating children who are able to pay contribute toward the actual cost of the lunches, but there is no distinction between pay and non-pay pupils, nor any embarrassment for those who do not pay.

YOUTH, 18, HURT FATALLY WHEN HUNTING FOR CROW

WAUSEON, June 3—Coroner H. M. Warner today returned a verdict of accidental death in the fatal shooting of 18-year-old Wayne Elden Odyck while he was hunting crows on his father's farm near Fayette. Wayne's double-barrelled shotgun was accidentally discharged while he was climbing a fence, Coroner Warner said. Searching parties, looking for the boy who had been missing since early Monday, discovered his body about midnight last night.

Draft Board Instructed To Prepare for July 1 Registration of Youths

Registration on July 1 of all young men in Pickaway County who have become 21 years old since last October 16 will be conducted by the local draft board.

A report from state Selective Service headquarters, Tuesday, informed the local board that it would be in charge of the registration and that instructions concerning the registration would be forwarded as soon as they were received from National headquarters.

Pickaway County has an estimated 150 young men eligible to register on July 1. Previous reports from state headquarters have indicated that those registering in July would be placed at the end of the present draft list, which would mean that none of the new registrants would be called into service until all Class 1-A men from the last registration had been inducted.

Next quota to be filled by the local board will be next Monday when two colored men will be sent to the induction station at Fort Hayes, Columbus. Those answering the call will be George Davis and Charles Smith, both of Circleville.

Fifteen white men will be sent to the induction station Tuesday, June 17, and the local board has received a tentative call to supply 16 men on the period beginning June 20, setting the June quota for the county at 39 men.

Under the present program of registration local boards will enroll the young men at the offices of the boards. In the event that local board headquarters are situated so that it would be difficult for men required to register to appear, local board chairmen may, with the consent of State Directors of Selective Service, select additional places of registration.

While full details of plans for registration are near completion at National Headquarters, the following telegram was sent to state directors by the national office.

"The second registration to be held July 1 will be conducted by local boards. It is not expected that outside voluntary help will be required. Suggest that you inform local boards in your State so that arrangements can be quickly completed when further instructions have been issued."

As announced by the President the registration will be conducted between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m., on July 1.

VILLAGE COUNCIL BUYS FIRE HOSE, PAYS ITS BILLS

By S. D. Fridley
Phone, Ashville 79

The village council was in session Monday evening with full force present except one member. Bills amounting to $366.08 were paid. Five hundred feet of fire hose, size, same as new in use, was purchased. No other business was transacted, Village Clerk Dick Willis told us.

The Harrison Township trustees, too, were in session.

Ashville—Cannery field peas, because of soft ground, are not easily harvested, was the report yesterday evening.

Ashville—Cashier of the Ashville Bank, C. D. Kraft, will attend, Wednesday and Thursday, a state bankers' meeting held at Cincinnati. Rev. A. C. Schiff and wife of Columbus, father and mother of Dr. L. C. Schiff were over week end guests at the Schiff home here. Mrs. Lydia Haley has returned to her home in Detroit. Jerome Peters, St. Paul, 93 years young in a couple months ahead, was here at headquarters Saturday and along with him were four of his former school boy pupils, Charles Trone, Edward Hines, S. M. Smith and the writer. But seven of the 27 boy pupils he had at school at Mt. Kisco, Madison Township, near seventy years ago, are living. Yes, there were, as we recall it, 27 girls enrolled and one of these days we'll have teacher Peters show us the well preserved old register and get the names of the living lassies.

Ashville—With six recreation ball teams organized and all ready to go and a lot of talk about a girls' team getting into action, there should be no lack of evening amusement during the summer months. Too, it is hoped that some sort of arrangement can be made to get the local school band together in a practice meeting or concert once a week or more if possible to arrange for it.

Ashville—Over outside wiring, electric current, caused by a nearby lightning stroke Saturday afternoon ran into the Edward Adkins home, Walnut Township, starting a blaze which was soon brought under control by means close at hand. Damage estimated at not more than five dollars.

Clearing the way for action on cases pending in Common Pleas Court, Prosecutor George Gerhardt, Monday issued nolle on 23 indictments.

JACKSON TIPPED FOR POSITION AS CHIEF JUSTICE

Charles Evans Hughes Gives Up Bench On July 1, He Writes President

AGE OF 79 REACHED

Present Attorney General To Carry Most Of New Deal Support

WASHINGTON, June 3—President Roosevelt today faced the pleasant duty of filling the seventh vacancy on the Supreme Court under the New Deal as Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes announced his retirement, effective July 1.

Many New Dealers immediately forecast the appointment of Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, of New York, as chief justice. A few predicted that a Coolidge Republican appointee to the tribunal, Associate Justice Harlan F. Stone, also of New York, would be named to head the court with Jackson getting an associate justiceship.

There is little doubt in Washington that Jackson will be elevated to the Supreme Court, either as Chief Justice or associate justice, nor is there much doubt but that Solicitor General Francis Biddle, of Pennsylvania, will be promoted to attorney general. The only question raised against Jackson's elevation is that Mr. Roosevelt might deem it desirable to keep him in the cabinet for the duration of the international emergency. This alternative was held so lightly that there was no speculation for the moment over any other possible appointee to the court.

1937 Goal Reached

With the retirement of Chief Justice Hughes, Mr. Roosevelt achieves the ultimate goal of his sensational 1937 bill to enlarge the Supreme Court—the naming of seven justices to that court. He already has named five—Associate Justices Black, Reed, Frankfurter, Douglas and Murphy—with one vacancy unfilled since Associate Justice James Clark McReynolds retired months ago. Incidentally, Sen. James F. Byrnes (D) S. C. is slated for the McReynolds post, whenever the President believes he can be spared from the senate. Only one president—George Washington has named more justices.

The retirement of Chief Justice Hughes was exclusively forecast by International News Service last April 21. Then, his friends said, he would retire at the end of the June term at his wife's insistence. In his letter to the President, announcing his retirement, Mr. Hughes based his act on "consideration of health and age." He was 79 on April 11.

Jackson, long an intimate friend of the President, has tremendous New Deal support for the chief justiceship. Among those who have advocated his promotion to head the tribunal are Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter and the presidential adviser, Harry L. Hopkins. Despite this support, some New Dealers favor promotion of Associate Justice Stone, senior member of the court and an ardent supporter of the New Deal despite his Republican background. The Stone adherents contend that Jackson has had an unimpressive seven-year career in the federal service which does not qualify him for the nation's highest judicial post. Stone, they say, has spent 17 years in the federal service, 16 of them on the high court, with great distinction.

CAUSE OF BOY'S DEATH STUDIED IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, June 3—Coroner Frank M. Coppock and Dr. W. H. Ventress, pathologist, today investigated the death of 16-year-old Ralph Mitchell, Fairmount schoolboy who was thought to have been electrocuted. Death came as the youth was returning from a picnic. Witnesses said the boy was standing in a crowded streetcar holding to a metal handrail on the corner of the seat when he suddenly said:

"I got a shock. Gee, it hurts." A moment later he slumped to the floor of the car. He was dead when examined by a physician. Dr. Ventress, after an examination of the body, said that there were no burns on the body but was unable to ascribe the cause of death.

Leaves Bench

CHIEF Justice Charles Evans Hughes who has resigned his position on the Supreme Court bench.

VALUED PUBLIC CAREER TO END FOR FAMED MAN

WASHINGTON, June 3—One of the most illustrious public careers in the nation's history will end July 1 when Charles Evans Hughes steps out as chief justice of the United States, a position he has held since February 24, 1930.

The 11th chief justice in the 151 years of the court, Chief Justice Hughes, appointed by President Hoover, was 79 on his last birthday, April 11.

Known as one of the greatest lawyers in the country's history, and one of the most indefatigable workers in service of the government, the chief justice refused to slow down even on the eve of his retirement.

He presided at the closing day of the court's June term yesterday, even after his letter of resignation had been drafted. It was sent to the White House immediately after the court adjourned until October, and telegraphed from the White House to the President at Hyde Park.

The chief justice admittedly has held the post during one of the most difficult periods in the history of the court—a period during which the court gradually passed from a so-called liberal policy of interpreting the constitution.

During this period the chief justice occupied a middle role. He plainly sought to save the court from destructive public criticism or congressional action by achieving an orderly transition.

The chief justice was born at Glen Falls, N. Y., the son of a minister. He attended Colgate and Brown Universities, and took his law degree at Columbia. A brilliant student, he won a prize fellowship.

Successively he occupied such high posts as governor of New York, associate justice of the supreme court and secretary of state. The Republican candidate for president in 1916, he missed election by a hair's breadth. For two days the country believed he had won. Then returns from California gave the election to Woodrow Wilson.

Rejecting a Republican nomination for mayor of New York, he was elected governor and served two terms, from 1907 to 1910. Appointed an associate justice of the high court, he served from 1910 until he was nominated by a Republican convention for the presidency June 10, 1916.

After his defeat for the presidency, the chief justice entered practice of law in New York. He reputedly commanded an earning power of $500,000 annually.

MORE SCHOOLS MAY TAKE PART IN LUNCH PLAN

Superintendent Favors Wide Use Of Program With Aid Of Relief Office

SIX JOIN IN 1940-41

Parent-Teacher Groups, Other Units Assist During Last Year

Six schools with 125 pupils participated in the school lunch program in Pickaway County during 1940-41, according to a report of Relief Director Delos H. Marcy.

Schools participating were Washington Township, Monroe Township, Perry Township, Deer Creek Township, Jackson Township and Scioto Township.

A large share of the credit for the county program is due Superintendent George D. McDowell, the relief director stated, although Superintendent McDowell insists that the responsibility for success of the plan rests with the local superintendents and teachers. He states "Undoubtedly the program has benefitted undernourished school children, improved their attendance, and contributed to the health program of the schools. It is hoped more of the schools will participate next year."

The school lunch program is a community enterprise for giving warm lunches to undernourished children. Most of the food served is provided by the Surplus Marketing Administration of the United States department of Agriculture and consists of basic commodities purchased by the government to stabilize agricultural markets.

P.-T.-A. Funds Help

To complete the menu, supplemental food is supplied through funds gathered by Parent-Teacher Association groups. In all six schools, help for the preparation and serving of meals was received from the P.T.A.

The program over the nation as a whole is growing, according to school authorities and Relief Director Marcy is planning a bigger program for the county schools next year.

More than five million of the estimated nine million undernourished children now receive warm noon lunches, more than twice as many as a year ago.

Operation of the program is entirely local, Relief Director Marcy pointed out, and not dependent on state or federal supervision. As in other counties in Ohio, local school authorities, P.T.A. groups and other civic organizations have important parts in carrying out the plan.

Participating children who are able to pay contribute toward the actual cost of the lunches, but there is no distinction between pay and non-pay pupils, nor any embarrassment for those who do not pay.

YOUTH, 18, HURT FATALLY WHEN HUNTING FOR CROW

WAUSEON, June 3—Coroner H. M. Warner today returned a verdict of accidental death in the fatal shooting of 18-year-old Wayne Elden Opdycke while he was hunting crows on his father's farm near Fayette. Wayne's double-barreled shotgun was accidentally discharged while he was climbing a fence, Coroner Warner said. Searching parties, looking for the boy who had been missing since early Monday, discovered his body about midnight last night.

PASTOR RESIGNS

He will leave June 23 and will have to resign the presidency of the Ohio Christian Missionary Society at Lima, a position to which he was elected two weeks ago. ## ANTI-STRIKE LEGISLATION

WASHINGTON—Two weeks ago the Vinson "anti-strike" bill was dead turkey. It had been put to quiet death in committee and even its sponsors weren't talking about it any more. Today the same bill is militantly back on the legislative calendar, practically certain of passage by the House, and with a 50-50 chance of Senate approval.

Organized labor can thank one small group for this complete reversal: The AFL machinist local in San Francisco which broke its contract and staged an outlaw strike tying up desperately needed ship construction in California. This walkout of 1,700 key workers stopped work for 12,000 other men who hesitated to cross the picket lines, and halted the building of eleven ships.

Here is the inside story of the strike—one of the worst blotches on labor's record:

In order to ensure labor stability and obtain maximum production, OPM's labor division established uniform wage-hour standards for all the shipyards on the West Coast—$1.12 an hour base pay, time-and-a-half for overtime, and the closed shop.

Previous wage scales ranged from 96 cents to $1.04 an hour, some plants recognizing the unions, others not. But under the new master agreement, pay was uniformly increased and all yards were unionized. It was a big victory for labor.

Among the leaders who participated in the negotiations were Harry Hook and E. F. Dillon, business agents of the San Francisco AFL machinists, Hook making the final motion that the agreement be recommended to the San Francisco Metal Trades Council. Later, the machinists were represented at the Council meeting which accepted the agreement, and international officers of the machinists signed the contract.

OFF AND ON HOOK

One month later, under the leadership of the same Hook and Dillon, the San Francisco machinists struck for $1.15 an hour and double pay for overtime. Walking out at the same time was a CIO machinist local in nearby Oakland, the only craft union in the CIO and completely under the domination of longshoreman Harry Bridges.

The Hook-Dillon type of leadership was further demonstrated during Governor Olson's attempt to settle the strike.

After several long conferences, Hook and Dillon gave their word not to oppose the Governor if he addressed a mass meeting of the machinists to urge them to return to work. To make sure there was no misunderstanding, Olson got the approval of the strike committee to make his plea.

After Olson made his speech, both Dillon and Hook took the platform and militantly argued against him.

NEW RACKET

This case is not the only such instance of AFL handling of defense labor. Last winter and spring AFL building trades business agents shook down millions of dollars in initiation fees from army camp construction workers. It is estimated that

Skin Test Fails as Diagnosis for Urticaria

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Urticaria, or hives, is an acute eruption on the skin which breaks out in itchy welts or red patches. A lady of my acquaintance who had a tendency to malapropisms

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

called me up once and told me she was all covered with "whelps." She was a little off because what she meant was that she was covered with wheals.

These wheals or hives are localized areas of dropsy, or exudations of serum into the tissue spaces. Sometimes they may be very serious when they get into the vocal cords, and entirely shut off breath.

Unless treated, a recent review of our latest experiences with the condition emphasizes again that the condition is not local in the skin, but is due to a general systemic poisoning.

Sensitivity to Foods and Drugs

The people who are subject to hives are sensitive to certain things, particularly certain foods and drugs. It is probably not proper to call it allergy. Skin tests which are used for diagnosis of allergy are not reliable in hives as the skin often reacts positively to substances that are negative, and negatively to substances that cause the condition. So many false reactions occur that skin tests in this condition are not reliable. The elimination diets of Rowe—eating certain groups of foods for a while—were more valuable in detecting the cause.

The substances which are most frequently responsible for outbreaks of this kind are as follows:

Foods: Shell fish, fish (including caviar), strawberries, cheese, nuts, eggs, wheat, milk, pork, chocolate.

Drugs: Quinine, ipecac, salicylates, barbiturates, iodides, bromides, phenolphthalein, morphine and other opium derivatives, anti-pyrene.

These two lists will account for the majority of cases, but remember that any food or drug can produce the condition.

Pitfalls in Study

Certain pitfalls may be encountered in the study of urticaria. These may be enumerated as follows:

A certain food may elicit a severe attack at one time but not at another (sensitive or nonsensitive phases).

A food such as fish or dried fish, if fresh, may fail to produce hives—but if not absolutely fresh will cause an attack.

Vegetables and fruits grown in one region may cause hives, whereas the same vegetables and fruits grown in another region may fail to do so.

Certain combinations of foods may be followed regularly by an eruption—whereas these foods individually may be without harmful effect.

The time between ingestion of food and eruption may vary between minutes to hours or days.

Following a single exposure to a sensitizing substance, hives may last varying lengths of time—from a few hours to many weeks. Drug eruptions often last for long periods of time.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. C.—"Three months ago my son had whooping cough, came through fine except that the last two weeks he has had a twitching of his eyes, especially his left. Would this be an effect from the whooping cough?"

Answer—There is no connection that I know of between whooping cough and this condition which is known as "tic," but be sure and try to train him out of it.

STARS SAY—

For Tuesday, June 3

A DAY notable for the renewed life and activity in old crystallized or static conditions, which may respond to new techniques, modernized methods or just plain push and hard work. Elders and superiors as well as long-established institutions may cooperate in such a fresh start, or assist in relation to stagnant investments or securities. But there is need of sagacity, astuteness, as well as suspicion, as both business and private affairs are in danger from intrigue, snares and treachery.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of definite progress in resurrecting old static and congested conditions by infusing new methods, sound systems, keen insight as to details, with dogged determination and industry as well as by the sturdy help of old institutions, employers or elders.

FIVE GOLF ACES FAVORED TO TOP NATIONAL OPEN

By Lawton Carver

EN ROUTE TO FORT WORTH, Tex., June 3—Before our departure for the west, the first official odds from the fairways and bunkers along Broadway were announced on the National Open golf championship today by Jack Doyle, the sage of the great white way, as follows:

Defending Champion Lawson Little, Professional Champion Byron Nelson, Leading Money-Winner Ben Hogan, Texas Jimmy Demaret and Perpetual Threat Sam Snead all 8 to 1 to take the big prize in the tournament starting at Fort Worth Thursday. Out of the big five thus established must emerge the winner as Doyle sees it through a long distance telescope from the roof of his New York hotel.

And if none of the foregoing can do it, he offers 12 to 1 on this group:
Gene Sarazen, who tied for the title last year then lost it in a playoff with Little; Horton Smith, Henry Picard, Ralph Guldahl, Craig Wood, recent winner of the Masters; Vic Ghezzi, Paul Runyan, Goodall round robin champion, Claudius Heafner, Jug McSpaden, Johnny Revolta, and Bud Ward, who has given the amateurs so many headaches.

MUDHENS SLASH BLUES' LEAD IN AA COMPETITION

COLUMBUS, June 3—Kansas City's margin over second-place Minneapolis in the American Association was only a matter of percentage points today because the Toledo Mudhens defeated the league-leaders last night, 5 to 4, in 11 innings.

Two story-book home runs gave the Mudhens the victory. The first, from the bat of Chuck Stevens, tied the score at four all after one was out in the last of the ninth. The second, by Milt Byrnes, gave the Brook the deciding tally with two gone in the 11th.

Four Toledo hurlers saw action, Frank Biscan finally getting credit for the win. Reils of Kansas City was charged with the defeat.

The loss dropped Kansas City into a tie with Minneapolis for the first spot in games won and lost. However, because they have lost one less game, the Blues maintained a five-percentage point advantage.

All the remaining games scheduled for last night were rained out.

CONN CLAIMS HE CAN DEFEAT BROWN BOMBER

NEW YORK, June 3—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis will not be champion after June 18, it was disclosed in all seriousness today by Billy Conn, whom the Brown Bomber will battle in a title match on that date at the Polo Grounds.

Conn confidently explained that he would be the kingpin of the heaviest after the date in question. Conn, going through his first workout preparatory to the fight, asserted:

"I believe I'll beat Joe Louis. My speed will offset his so-called punching power, and I'll keep his face full of gloves."

Conn further explained that he is in the best condition of his career, is jabbing faster than ever, does not expect to be weary after the 15-round, and, briefly, will outpoint Joe Louis.

arranged for men and women who are graduates of non-engineering colleges, while the other is for recent high school graduates. Applications are being received through this week at Professor Nold's office in Lord Hall, on the campus.

"Few persons realize the urgent need for engineers today, with new plants taking on new workers to the number of many thousands per month all over the nation," Professor Nold says.

"Technical schools are not able to supply this national need, and Congress has authorized such courses as that being held at Ohio State this summer.

"During the last World War, women were employed quite satisfactorily in the drafting rooms of industrial plants. If the present demand continues—and it promises to increase—we will probably see women filling many positions in technical work. In fact, we already have had requests for women trained along technical lines. Any young woman who has had the proper education, who is physically fit for the busy life of industry, and who wants to serve in a real way during the present crisis will likely find her service in demand."

Gehrig, One of Sports World's Greatest, Dies

"Iron Man" Victim Of Paralysis Of Spine At Age Of 37; Long Career A Brilliant One

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, June 3—Great and noble athletes will continue to come and go on this mundane sphere, but few will be comparable to Henry Louis Gehrig whose death is a source of sorrow today in the world of sport.

The erstwhile first baseman of the New York Yankees succumbed to an illness that two years ago forced his retirement from the diamond and in recent days caused him to be confined to his home here where he died at 10:10 last night. The disease was diagnosed as a rare paralysis affecting the muscles and spinal cord.

Gehrig would have been 38 years old June 19. Funeral services will be conducted privately tomorrow in the Christ Episcopal Church at suburban Riverdale.

Gehrig's name, however, will live on, because he was one of the immortals of an immortal dynasty of the diamond. When Larupin' Lou moved into the Yankee lineup June 1, 1925 as a pinchhitter, he began the establishment of a record that possibly will never be equaled. Between the day of his debut and April 30, 1939, Gehrig played 2,130 consecutive games, and, in that way, earned the title of baseball's "Iron Man."

During this amazing career of durability and proficiency, Gehrig wielded one of the big bats in the Yankees' famous "murderers' row," which included Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel and subsequently, Bill Dickey and Joe DiMaggio.

Champion In 1934

Lou was the American League's batting champion in 1934, the year he hit .363. He consistently maintained a high batting average, however, and over a 13-year period batted in 100 or more runs each season. His life-time batting mark was .340, and in world series he averaged .361.

Gehrig was the Yanks' cleanup hitter, even with the redoubtable Ruth as a teammate. He paced the league in homers for 12 years and won other honors by being voted the circuit's most valuable player in 1931, 1934 and 1936 and playing first base in seven all-star contests.

Gehrig broke into professional baseball when he attracted attention as a star of the Columbia University nine. Paul Kritcheil, the Yankee scout, signed him for Manager Miller Huggins, but after 13 games with the Yanks in the spring of 1923, he was farmed out to Hartford in the Eastern League.

Two years later, he was back with the Yankees to stay until they were deprived of his services by the illness that proved fatal.

Lou always belittled the fact that he was baseball's "Iron Man." He used to say, "all I'm doing is playing the game because I am able to play and I love to play."

It was almost unbelievable when the sturdy Gehrig was stuck in the spring of 1939. His batting had sloughed off to .143 in eight games, and finally, he told Manager Joe McCarthy after a game against Washington May 2 that, "I would like to rest a few days."

He never played another championship game. On June 12, he was in the lineup for the last three innings in an exhibition tiff at Kansas City, but the next day he was enroute to Mayo's clinic for a thorough examination.

General Manager Ed Barrow of the Yankee can be a hard-bitten fellow, but six days later he was a saddened man when physicians disclosed that Lou Gehrig was suffering from amyotrophic lateral sclerosis and probably would never be able to play again.

He continued in uniform, however, through the 1939 campaign although he was unable to leave the bench.

Named by LaGuardia
Subsequently, Gehrig was appointed by Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia to a 10-year term as a city parole commissioner. The salary was $5,700 annually, and hardly comparable with the estimated $400,000 he had earned in baseball.

But Lou went about his new position with great enthusiasm, and sought retirement from the public eye.

He remained active as a police commissioner until a month ago when his doctors ordered him to conserve his energy.

Gehrig was born June 19, 1903, in New York City, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gehrig. His parents and his wife, the former Eleanor Twichell of Chicago, were among those at his bedside when baseball's "iron man" slid quietly into the home plate of some Valhalla, leaving behind a sparkling record that athletes of the future will hope to equal.

GEHRIG DEATH SHOCKS BABE RUTH, EX-BUDDY

NEW YORK, June 3—Although himself one of the greatest players who ever lived, Lou Gehrig often was overshadowed by his colorful teammate, redoubtable Babe Ruth, but nobody was more sad today than the Bambino.

Informed of Gehrig's death, Ruth cried, "No, no . . . this is terrible, terrible news. It can't be true."

Then the Babe, who long ago retired from the ranks of players, gathered his emotions and continued:

"I knew how ill Lou was; but I think all of us hoped, even against hope, that he would fight his way out."

"The Babe was Gehrig's boyhood baseball idol."

Bottom Of Batting Order Does Trick; Derringer Pitches Tuesday

NEW YORK, June 3—The Cincinnati Reds today had proved that baseball adage "it is not the hits that count but the runs."

The New York Giants, who the Redlegs, 8 to 5, in the polo grounds yesterday but the final score read, 4 to 3 in favor of Cincinnati.

Main reason for the Redleg win was home runs knocked out by Eddie Joost and Ernie Lombardi, and providing three runs, Hurier Elmer Riddle helped things along himself by batting in the other counter which proved the eventual margin of victory.

It was the bottom of the batting order that did the hitting for the defending National League champions. Lombardi got a single in addition to his homer and Craft also pounced out a one baser.

Harry Danning, fined $150 for arguing with the umpire in Sunday's game, drove in two of the Giants' runs with a homer in the sixth. Bill McGee was the losing pitcher.

Manager Bill McKeehn was expected to send Paul Derringer to the mound today to oppose Carpenter of the Giants.

"Few persons realize the urgent need for engineers today, with new plants taking on new workers to the number of many thousands per month all over the nation," Professor Nold says.

"Technical schools are not able to supply this national need, and Congress has authorized such courses as that being held at Ohio State this summer."

"During the last World War, women were employed quite satisfactorily in the drafting rooms of industrial plants. If the present demand continues—and it promises to increase—we will probably see women filling many positions in technical work. In fact, we already have had requests for women trained along technical lines. Any young woman who has had the proper educational background, who is intellectually fit for the busy life of industry, and who wants to serve in a real way during the present crisis will likely find her service in demand."

FIVE GOLF ACES FAVORED TO TOP NATIONAL OPEN

By Lawton Carver

EN ROUTE TO FORT WORTH, Tex., June 3—Before our departure for the west, the first official odds from the fairways and bunkers along Broadway were announced on the National Open golf championship today by Jack Doyle, the sage of the great white way, as follows:

Defending Champion Lawson Little, Professional Champion Byron Nelson, Leading Money-Winner Ben Hogan, Texas Jimmy Demaret and Perpetual Tumbler Sam Snead all 8 to 1 to take the big prize in the tournament starting at Fort Worth Thursday. Out of the big five thus established to meet emerge the winner as Doyle sees it through a long distance telescope from the roof of his New York hotel.

And if none of the foregoing can do it, he offers 12 to 1 on this group:

Gene Sarazen, who tied for the title last year then lost it in a playoff with Little; Horton Smith, Henry Picard, Ralph Guldahl, Craig Wood, recent winner of the Masters; Vic Ghezzi, Paul Runyan, Goodall round robin champion; Clayton Heafner, Jug McSpaden, Johnny Revolta, and Bud Ward, who has given the amateurs so many headaches.

MUDHENS SLASH BLUES' LEAD IN AA COMPETITION

COLUMBUS, June 3 — Kansas City's margin over second-place Minneapolis in the American Association was only a matter of percentage points today because the Toledo Mudhens defeated the league-leaders last night, 5 to 4, in 11 innings.

Two story-book home runs gave the Mudhens the victory. The first, from the bat of Chuck Stevens, tied the score at four all after one was out in the last of the ninth. The second, by Milt Byrnes, gave the Brook the deciding tally with two gone in the 11th.

Four Toledo hurlers saw action, Frank Biscan finally getting credit for the win. Reis of Kansas City was charged with the defeat.

The loss dropped Kansas City into a tie with Minneapolis for the first spot in games won and lost. However, because they have lost one less game, the Blues maintained a five-percentage point advantage.

All the remaining games scheduled for last night were rained out.

CONN CLAIMS HE CAN DEFEAT BROWN BOMBER

NEW YORK, June 3—Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis will not be champion after June 18, it was disclosed in all seriousness today by Billy Conn, whom the Brown Bomber will battle in a title match on that date at the Polo Grounds.

Conn confidently explained that he would be the kingpin of the heaviest after the date in question. Conn, going through his first workout preparatory to the fight, asserted:

"I believe I'll beat Joe Louis. My speed will offset his so-called punching power, and I'll keep his face full of gloves."

Conn further explained that he is in the best condition of his career, is jabbing faster than ever, does not expect to be weary after the 15-round, and, briefly, will outpoint Joe Louis.

Leading hitters: American League—Williams, Boston. 424; Dickey, New York. 373; Cronin, Boston. 372; Cullenbine, St. Louis. 363; Heath, Cleveland. 367.

National League—Reiser, Brooklyn. 356; Hack, Chicago. 354; Slaughter, St. Louis. 349; Mize and Padgett, St. Louis. 340.

Runs batted in: American League—York, Detroit. 45; Keller, New York. 38; Gordon, New York. 37.

National League—Nicholson, Chicago. 41; Ott, New York. 35; Moore, St. Louis. 32.

Gehrig, One of Sports World's Greatest, Dies

"Iron Man" Victim Of Paralysis Of Spine At Age Of 37; Long Career A Brilliant One

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, June 3 — Great and noble athletes will continue to come and go on this mundane sphere, but few will be comparable to Henry Louis Gehrig whose death is a source of sorrow today in the world of sport.

The erstwhile first baseman of the New York Yankees succumbed to an illness that two years ago forced his retirement from the diamond and in recent days caused him to be confined to his home where he died at 10:10 last night. The disease was diagnosed as a rare paralysis affecting the muscles and spinal cord.

Gehrig would have been 38 years old June 19. Funeral services will be conducted privately tomorrow in the Christ Episcopal Church at suburban Riverdale.

Gehrig's name, however, will live on, because he was one of the immortals of an immortal dynasty of the diamond. When Larupin Lou moved into the Yankee lineup June 1, 1925 as a pinchhitter, he began the establishment of a record that possibly will never be equalled. Between the day of his debut and April 30, 1939, Gehrig played 2,130 consecutive games, and, in that way, earned the title of baseball's "Iron Man."

During this amazing career of durability and proficiency, Gehrig wielded one of the big bats in the Yankees' famous "murderers' row," which included Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel and subsequently, Bill Dickey and Joe DiMaggio.

Champion In 1934

Lou was the American League's batting champion in 1934, the year he hit .363. He consistently maintained a high batting average, however, and over a 13-year period batted in 100 or more runs each season. His life-time batting mark was .340, and in world series he averaged .361.

Gehrig was the Yankees' cleanup hitter, even with the redoubtable Ruth as a teammate. He paced the league in homers for 12 years and won other honors by being voted the circuit's most valuable player in 1931, 1934 and 1936 and playing first base in seven all-star contests.

Gehrig broke into professional baseball when he attracted attention as a star of the Columbia University nine. Paul Kritchell, the Yankee scout, signed him for Manager Miller Huggins, but after 13 games with the Yankees in the spring of 1923, he was farmed out to Hartford in the Eastern League.

Two years later, he was back with the Yankees to stay until they were deprived of his services by the illness that proved fatal.

Lou always belittled the fact that he was baseball's "Iron Man." He used to say, "all I'm doing is playing the game because I am able to play and I love to play."

It was almost unbelievable when the sturdy Gehrig was stricken in the spring of 1939. His batting had sloughed off to .143 in eight games, and finally, he told Manager Joe McCarthy after a game against Washington May 2 that, "I would like to rest a few days."

He never played another championship game. On June 12, he was in the lineup for the last three innings in an exhibition tiff at Kansas City, but the next day he was enroute to Mayo's clinic for a thorough examination.

General Manager Ed Barrow of the Yankee can be a hard-bitten fellow, but six days later he was a saddened man when physicians disclosed that Lou Gehrig was suffering from amyotrophic lateral sclerosis and probably would never be able to play again.

He continued in uniform, however, through the 1939 campaign although he was unable to leave the bench.

Subsequently, Gehrig was appointed by Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia to a 10-year term as a city parole commissioner. The salary was $5,700 annually, and hardly comparable with the estimated $400,000 he had earned in baseball.

But Lou went about his new position with great enthusiasm, and sought retirement from the public eye.

He remained active as a police commissioner until a month ago when his doctors ordered him to conserve his energy.

Gehrig was born June 19, 1903, in New York City, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gehrig. His parents and his wife, the former Eleanor Twichell of Chicago, were among those at his bedside when baseball's "iron man" slid quietly into the home plate of some Valhalla, leaving behind a sparkling record that athletes of the future will hope to equal.

DEADLINE FOR CITY CANDIDATES' PETITIONS SET FOR JUNE 13,

ONLY TWO MEN IN CONTEST FOR MAYOR'S POST

Three File Papers For Nomination To Jobs As Councilmen

SEVERAL ISSUES VITAL

Parking, Finances Listed For Consideration By Executives

With the deadline for filing petitions with the county Board of Elections set for Friday, June 13, at 6:30 p. m., those seeking nomination for city offices are beginning to plan their campaigns for the primary election on August 12.

Election interest this year will center around city offices, with those of mayor, council, solicitor and treasurer open. Five candidates, all of them Democrats, already have filed their petitions with the election board. Mayor W. B. Cady again will seek the Democratic nomination for Mayor, his only opponent at present being B. H. Gordon, councilman-at-large and chairman of council's finance committee. Mr. Gordon has not yet filed his petition.

John C. Goeller, president of council, seeks the Democratic nomination to the office again this year. He is at present the only person in the race for president of council.

Three For Council

Three men have filed petitions with the election board for councilman-at-large. They are Clarence Helvering, seeking reelection to the office; C. O. Leist, 541 North Court Street, grocer, and Byron Eby, 703 North Court. Present councilmen-at-large are Mr. Helvering, Mr. Gordon and Frank A. Lynch.

Issues which are expected to be foremost in the campaign for a seat in the council are parking problem, city finance and a building code.

The parking problem has kept council in hot water ever since it adopted the parallel parking system on Main Street last year. Much discussion has centered around downtown parking, with a return to angle parking, purchase of parking meters and no double parking, among the issues discussed.

With city finances low, the problem of operating the city on the least amount of money and still maintain an effective city government will be one of the issues before council, and will be one of the questions which voters will place before candidates seeking a council office. At present council is considering placing a levy before the voters in an effort to raise funds for current operating expenses.

Building Code Sought

The building code has been presented to council several times, but always has been pushed into a committee or dropped entirely. Various civic organizations have attempted to get a building code passed, but council has taken no action on the matter.

Joseph E. Brink, East Union Street Democrat, is the only person who has filed petition for the city treasurer nomination.

Election board officials state they expect petitions to come in rapidly within the next week.

DUNKLE FARMS TOTALLING 719 ACRES ARE SOLD

One of the largest land sales ever conducted in the county was held at the Court House Monday afternoon when four farms, including 719 acres of land, were sold, three of the farms being sold by the sheriff and the fourth by the administrator.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

The total "take" was not less than $10,000,000.

Today, building trades agents are working a new "shakedown." They are staging strikes for big wage boosts on cost-plus-fixed-price government projects. These are projects on which the Government pays all costs, plus a fixed fee to the contractor for directing the construction. Any wage increase comes entirely out of the pocket of the taxpayer. Naturally the contractor doesn't care and the strikes actually are against the Government.

Involved in these pay demands is no question of low wages, excessive work hours, or union recognition. The demands are purely a gouging racket.

In repeated public statements, William Green, plus other AFL moguls have uttered pious words of patriotism. But when it comes down to cracking the whip on contract-breakers and racketeers, all Green has to offer is "patience."

"Senator," he replied to Senator Harry Truman, chairman of the committee which questioned Green about the outlaw San Francisco strike, "we learn in life that we must be patient many times. Even with bad boys and bad girls."

GENERAL JOHNSON RELIEF

President Roosevelt vetoes many of the so-called private bills for payment of claims by individuals; but insiders are betting he will sign one that passed the Senate the other day. This bill is in behalf of one of FDR's loudest critics, General Hugh S. Johnson.

Interesting fact is that the Government has had a claim for $1.

Johnson refused to pay the Government on the ground that the "excess" items, chiefly plane fare, Pullman staterooms and extra hotel rooms for business offices, were legitimate; also that instead of over-spending he actually had to dig down in his own pocket.

The record bears this out, Johnson spent around $20,000 on his private funds while NRA boss.

His $6,000-a-year salary, which he fixed himself, was much less than the pay of some assistants and far from enough to enable him to live on the scale that was required of him. However, the Accounting Office demanded a refund. Finally, on advice of friends, Johnson appealed to Congress.

When popular Senator Jimmy Byrnes of South Carolina heard his story, he promptly introduced a bill to cancel the claim. It passed the Senate unanimously and the President doubtless will sign it.

But the chief agencies dealing with espionage are the Army, Navy and FBI. The three chiefs meet together once a week, rotating the meeting place in each other's offices. ## FARMERS ASKED TO ATTEND OSU PASTURE EVENT

Pickaway County farmers are invited to Columbus to attend the annual meadow and pasture field day on June 5 at the Ohio State University farm, located between one and two miles west of the main campus. The department of agronomy at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station and at the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University, have extended an invitation to everyone interested in attending.

During the morning, beginning at 9 a. m., the visitors will be shown the tests on the experimental plots of the college's department of agronomy. These include alfalfa varieties and breeding; new wheat and oats varieties for Ohio; seeding alfalfa in oats; white clover in pastures; meadow mixtures; and varieties of sweet clover, red clover, and winter barley.

After lunch, which will be available at the University farm, D. J. Kays, chairman of the college's animal husbandry department, will discuss pastures in livestock management; E. A. Silver, experiment station research engineer, will tell about new machinery for harvesting hay and grass silage; D. R. Dodd, extension pasture specialist, will outline the pasture program of the Ohio State University and conduct a tour of the University's pastures; and G. W. McCuen, chairman of the college's agricultural engineering department, will have on exhibit various new hay and grass silage machinery.

ONLY TWO MEN IN CONTEST FOR MAYOR'S POST

Three File Papers For Nomination To Jobs As Councilmen

SEVERAL ISSUES VITAL

Parking, Finances Listed For Consideration By Executives

With the deadline for filing petitions with the county Board of Elections set for Friday, June 13, at 6:30 p. m., those seeking nomination for city offices are beginning to plan their campaigns for the primary election on August 12.

Election interest this year will center around city offices, with those of mayor, council, solicitor and treasurer open. Five candidates, all of them Democrats, already have filed their petitions with the election board. Mayor W. B. Cady again will seek the Democratic nomination for Mayor, his only opponent at present being B. H. Gordon, councilman-at-large and chairman of council's finance committee. Mr. Gordon has not yet filed his petition.

John C. Goeller, president of council, seeks the Democratic nomination to the office again this year. He is at present the only person in the race for president of council.

Three For Council

Three men have filed petitions with the election board for councilman-at-large. They are Clarence Helvering, seeking reelection to the office; C. O. Leist, 541 North Court Street, grocer, and Byron Eby, 703 North Court. Present councilmen-at-large are Mr. Helvering, Mr. Gordon and Frank A. Lynch.

Issues which are expected to be foremost in the campaign for a seat in the council are parking problem, city finance and a building code.

The parking problem has kept council in hot water ever since it adopted the parallel parking system on Main Street last year. Much discussion has centered around downtown parking, with a return to angle parking, purchase of parking meters and no double parking, among the issues discussed.

With city finances low, the problem of operating the city on the least amount of money and still maintain an effective city government will be one of the issues before council, and will be one of the questions which voters will place before candidates seeking a council office. At present council is considering placing a levy before the voters in an effort to raise funds for current operating expenses.

Building Code Sought

The building code has been presented to council several times, but always has been pushed into a committee or dropped entirely. Various civic organizations have attempted to get a building code passed, but council has taken no action on the matter.

Joseph E. Brink, East Union Street Democrat, is the only person who has filed petition for the city treasurer nomination.

Election board officials state they expect petitions to come in rapidly within the next week.

DUNKLE FARMS TOTALLING 719 ACRES ARE SOLD

One of the largest land sales ever conducted in the county was held at the Court House Monday afternoon when four farms, including 719 acres of land, were sold, three of the farms being sold by the sheriff and the fourth by the administrator.

Lands sold were those of the late Daniel F. Dunkle. The Dunkle home place in Circleville Township, 201.98 acres of land, was purchased by Prof. and Mrs. Carson Horton of Columbus for $90.25 an acre. Mrs. Horton is the former Helen Renick of Circleville. The farm was sold by the administrator, E. A. Brown.

Mrs. T. P. Brown, 479 North Court Street, purchased a 34 acre farm in Circleville Township for $102.50 an acre, paying $3,493.97 for the entire farm.

The 81 acre farm in Circleville Township went to Turney M. Glick, Circleville RFD, for $112 an acre. The land lies next to the Glick farm.

William G. Hamilton, West High Street, bought the 403 acre farm in Harrison Township, the land selling for $80 an acre.

A large crowd gathered in the Court House lobby to witness the auction.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Today, building trades agents are working a new "shakedown." They are staging strikes for big wage boosts on cost-plus-fixed-fee government projects. These are projects on which the Government pays all costs, plus a fixed fee to the contractor for directing the construction. Any wage increase comes entirely out of the pocket of the taxpayer. Naturally the contractor doesn't care and the strikes actually are against the Government.

Involved in these pay demands is no question of low wages, excessive work hours, or union recognition. The demands are purely a gouging racket.

In repeated public statements, William Green, plus other AFL moguls have uttered pious words of patriotism. But when it comes down to cracking the whip on contract-breakers and racketeers, all Green has to offer is "patience."
